Why You Should Work with MedEdits Medical Admissions

Unlike the personnel at our competition, all of our advisors have worked in medical school and residency admissions at the faculty level for many application cycles. We don't claim to be experts based on brief appearances as a student representative or junior faculty member on an admissions committee. Our higher fees are a reflection of our expertise, team approach, client success, and growing demand for our services. Our team is exceptional. It may be a cliché, but with regard to medical admissions counseling you do get what you pay for; be wary of working with an individual or company with less experience or lower fees than MedEdits; doing so may result in inferior service. A current medical student, a resident physician, a physician without faculty level medical school and residency admissions experience or a company that offers professional editors but no one with medical admissions experience cannot offer the insight and wisdom that we can. No one in the industry has our breadth and depth of experience and insight. By working with MedEdits, you can be confident that you are giving your application to medical school, residency or fellowship your absolute best shot. Hiring the best company is an investment in your future – so do your homework and choose wisely! Students and their parents choose to work with MedEdits Medical Admissions to give themselves the greatest advantage when applying to medical school. At the same time, they increase efficiency and decrease anxiety.

Who Works with MedEdits Medical Admissions?

MedEdits Medical Admissions works with students from all over the United States and the world! Our clients come from a variety of backgrounds and have diverse goals. We work with students who are seeking to gain admission to the most elite medical schools in the country and others who are hoping to attend top osteopathic and Caribbean medical schools. We also work with nontraditional applicants. Our residency and fellowship applicants range from those who attend top US medical schools seeking to match in highly competitive specialties to those from international medical schools simply hoping to match somewhere.

MedEdits Students Get Results!

This year, more than 46,000 students applied to allopathic (MD) medical schools in the United States. Fewer than half of these students will be accepted to medical school.

By working with MedEdits, you can join our successful group of students; a remarkable 94% of MedEdits students who work with us on every part of the admissions process are accepted to allopathic medical schools in the United States. The vast majority (95%) of residency applicants who work with us comprehensively match in the specialty of their choice. Many match at their #1 choice. This doesn't mean we can work miracles, but it does mean that we can help students to devise a strategy that will make them the most competitive applicants possible. MedEdits' expertise and a well developed plan can yield phenomenal results.

MedEdits Medical Admissions Expertise and Wisdom is Unmatched

Not only have we worked as voting faculty members on medical school and residency admissions committees for many admissions cycles, but we are also experienced medical educators with an understanding of the premedical process and medical school and residency training. We know which applicants gain admission to medical school and also "know what it takes" to get a top residency position. In other words, our knowledge and understanding span the continuum of medical education, which reflects the breadth and depth of our knowledge.

We also stay up to date with medical school and residency admissions data and trends and attend national medical education meetings. We have our fingers on the medical admissions pulse!

Every year we work with students who either weren't accepted to medical school or could have had better results or didn't get a residency because they chose to work with other individuals or companies who had less experience or because they chose to navigate this complicated process on their own. Don't make these mistakes.

MedEdits Medical Admissions Embraces a Unique Team Approach

Our team is small and composed of professionals; we never hire medical students or residents who may lack the appropriate experience and are trying to make extra money without having the experience to responsibly guide applicants. Just because someone attends a top tier medical school does not mean he or she has the maturity and expertise to advise others. Would colleges and medical schools ever allow current students or trainees to exclusively guide students? Would you hire an MBA student to manage your finances?

Our team comprises former academic physicians and medical educators and professional editors and writers. This is our full time job rather than a sideline gig or something we do during our off time. The MedEdits Team works like a “well-oiled” machine with each of us bringing our unique expertise to help you put forth the best application and candidacy possible - without “overpackaging” or undermining your authenticity. For example, one member of our team might be better at general advising while another might be more effective in conducting mock interviews. You also won’t work with “whomever might be available.”

At MedEdits, we are fully devoted to our clients and are not distracted by outside commitments. Dr. Jessica Freedman, our company’s founder, oversees every student’s application and coordinates the work of all members of our team.

MedEdits Medical Admissions Understands

At MedEdits, we realize that the medical admissions process is stressful and often anxiety-provoking for students and their loved ones. Our philosophy is to mentor each student with warmth, compassion, and understanding. We nurture our students, helping them discover their unique strengths and candidacy differentiators. Our advising process and philosophy build confidence and empowers the students with whom we work.

MedEdits Medical Admissions Can Help You:

1) Devise a winning strategy

Students often don't succeed simply because they don't "apply smart." As part of your initial consultation, which is how most clients start working with us, you will complete your Game Plan inventory form. The questions asked in this form are based on our years of experience in medical admissions and will prompt you to offer the information that is crucial to our proven advising strategy. Your Game Plan session will serve as the launching point for our work together so we can best understand you, your strengths, weaknesses, insights, and ambitions. With our Game Plan strategy, we will work with you to devise the best road map so you have the greatest chance of success.

2) Create documents that wow admissions committees

MedEdits' unique essay coaching and editing process allows you to bring out the best of your candidacy in your own words and style. With our proven essay coaching techniques, we will ask thought provoking questions that will help you to think of ideas and insights that you probably wouldn't have thought of on your own. This allows you to create documents that will distinguish you, making the admissions officer interested and curious to learn more about your candidacy. We never write documents on behalf of clients, but we will inspire you to write to the best of your ability and in the most compelling fashion possible.

3) Make a great impression on interviews

Whether you are preparing for a one-on-one traditional interview, a multiple mini interview, or a behavioral interview, our well developed interview preparation services will build your confidence because they will help you to understand how you can best present your candidacy. Our approach discourages "canned" or memorized responses and instead helps you to understand what aspects of your background and experience make you stand out so you can speak about yourself with confidence. If you are preparing for a multiple mini or behavioral interview, we will also help you develop an approach to the different scenarios that might be presented so you can navigate these increasingly popular interview styles.

4) Get the best results

The medical school application year is a fluid one, and we help students navigate it so they receive the most acceptances possible. Whether you are trying to get off a wait list at your number one choice medical school or you are trying to convert the one interview you received into an acceptance, we can work with you to help you get the best results.

The residency and fellowship admissions processes are a bit different, and we will guide you towards obtaining the best possible position.

5) Do your best in medical school and residency

Getting accepted to medical school or residency is the first step. After your acceptance, you must know how you can make the most of your medical education and training. We will help you understand how best to position yourself as a stellar medical student or resident so you are again ready to submit the best application for residency! We'll help you get accepted to medical school and can then guide you to become a leader in your field.
